WHERE LEADERS ARE MADE

Inspire and engage your employees

How can you inspire future leaders and engage employees? It's something that major corporations such as The Coca-Cola Company, Google and Sony Electronics Inc. have done for years: they offer their employees the opportunity to participate in a Toastmasters club at the office.

Toastmasters creates and encourages leadership

Think of it as an ongoing, onsite class where your employees meet once a week to practice their communication and leadership skills in a supportive setting with their colleagues. At these meetings, they are encouraged to:

- Present impromptu and prepared speeches
- Learn how to plan and manage meetings
- Give and receive constructive feedback

Notable Corporate Clubs:

- ▶ Apple[®]
- ▶ Blue Cross BlueShield → Google®
- Boeing*
- ▶ Coca-Cola®
- Disnev[®]

- General Electric
- Sony*
- State Farm®
- Tovota^s

Being in Toastmasters pushes you to take on challenges that you wouldn't have taken on by yourself. You start stepping up more for a project and want to take on more responsibility and become a leader. That's what makes our group truly what it is."

INTERESTING FACT

Nearly one-third of all Fortune 500 companies sponsor Toastmasters clubs to help their employees become better communicators and leaders.

DID YOU KNOW

The Coca-Cola Toastmasters Club has recently added conferences. workshops and town-hall style Q&A sessions with top company executives, all aimed at polishing up-and-comers' people skills.

Fortune magazine article, "Why your bass wants you to join Toastmasters," published in July 2015.

My passion, and frankly admiration, for Toastmasters goes deep as I have rarely seen a program that commits to storytelling with such ease and conviction. We all know how important communication is in business and in life and how daunting it can be to many; Toastmasters' program develops confidence in people's ability to effectively communicate."

— Mike FasuloPresident and COO – Sony Electronics Inc.

Unlike most people who have a fear of public speaking, I have a fear of speaking with executives one-on-one or in small groups. I ran a company and it was very challenging for me to communicate with my employees. Because of my Toastmasters experience, I am a more confident leader."
